Any old pots? Have you found old pieces of pottery in your garden or fields? Do you have a pottery related surname or are you a descendent of famous potters? York Archaeological Trust would like to meet you @hovinghammarket.

Local archaeologists are running a project to locate the known and potential 17th century kiln sites in the Howardian Hills. Please bring along any pottery and wasters that you have found in your gardens and fields so that they can be identified.

York Archaeological Trust are very much looking forward to meeting you and sharing your knowledge of this rich and beautiful landscape. The project is supported by the Howardian Hills and York Archaeological Trust.
